Dear Editor,

I hope this message finds you well. I am writing on behalf of an academic institution that supports PhD researchers and faculty in publishing high-quality research. We are interested in submitting manuscripts to Journal of the European Mathematical Society, especially due to its SCI indexing and relevance to our research areas and special issue.

To meet pressing academic timelines, we would like to inquire if your journal offers a fast-track review and publication option. If such a service is available, we are prepared to contribute an expedited processing fee of 1000 USD per accepted manuscript to support the review process.

We would also appreciate a brief initial assessment of manuscript suitability before formal submission to ensure alignment with your journal's focus.

Thank you for considering our request. We look forward to the opportunity to collaborate and contribute to your publication.

Best regards,
Rakib Hasan
