

Dear members of the executive council of ASE,

The co-editors of RoSE have informed us of their decision to step down from the Review of Social Economy after ASE's decision to extend the contract with a commercial publisher, Taylor and Francis. They have explained their reasons, on which they had also offered us a discussion session earlier on. We share the values on which this decision is based and therefore also step down from our roles on associate editors boards or advisory boards.

With best wishes

1. Peter Hans Matthews, Middlebury College
2. Mark Granovetter, Stanford University
3. Daniele Tavani, Colorado State University
4. Lyn Spillman, University of Notre Dame
5. Nicholas Vrousalis, Erasmus University Rotterdam
6. John E. Roemer, Yale University
7. Jayati Ghosh, University of Massachusetts Amherst, USA.
8. Marc Fleurbaey, Paris School of Economics
9. Simone Polillo, University of Virginia
10. Carlo Fiorio, University of Milan, Italy
11. Sara Stevano, SOAS University of London
12. Ho-fung Hung, Johns Hopkins University
13. Miriam Rehm, University of Duisburg-Essen
14. Benjamin Ferguson, University of Warwick
15. Omar Dahi, Hampshire College
16. Pranab Bardhan, University of California Berkeley
17. Ramaa Vasudevan, Colorado State University
18. Deepankar Basu, University of Massachusetts Amherst
19. Joan Tronto, University of Minnesota
20. Firat Demir, University of Oklahoma
21. Robert Calvert Jump, University of Greenwich
22. Gabriel Montes Rojas, Universidad de Buenos Aires
23. Marta Fana, University of Parma
24. Debra Satz, Stanford University
25. George DeMartino, University of Denver
26. Ben Fine, SOAS University of London
27. Nancy Folbre, University of Massachusetts Amherst, USA
28. Alya Guseva, Boston University
29. Susanne Wengle, University of Notre Dame
30. Constanze Binder, Erasmus University Rotterdam
31. Laura Carvalho, University of Sao Paulo
32. John Davis, Marquette University
33. Leila Davis, University of Massachusetts Boston
34. Eszter Kollar, Leuven University
35. Carolina Alves, University College London, IIPP

36. Ilene Grabel, University of Denver

37. Joao de Souza, University of Massachusetts Boston